CLASS B.—MYTHOLOGY AND FOLKLORE.

GENERAL REMARKS.

A considerable amount of information, of a more or less trustworthy nature, as contained in the works of Travellers and Missionaries. For a nearer study of the subjects comprised under this CLASS, attention should therefore be given to the leading Geographical and Ethnographical works [CLASS E] on the countries in point. In the case of Oriental and other Non-European Countries reference should also be made to CLASS F [HISTORY] passim, especially § Primitive Society.

The scientific study of Folklore (excepting only that of Greece and Rome) being in England and America of quite recent origin, its literature in the English language is very limited; moreover the principal collections of non-English folklore exist only in their own languages. It has, therefore, been deemed essential, in this CLASS, to incorporate the more important foreign books. In cases, however, where English or American works are fairly satisfactory, only what are thought to be quite indispensable have been included.

I. Comparative Mythology and Folklore.

1. PHILOSOPHY OF MYTHOLOGY.

Origin of the Mythopoeic Instinct.

FISKE, Prf. J. [Am.] Myths and Myth Makers $2 12° Boston 73

Origins of folklore, the descent of fire, were-wolves and swan-maidens, light and darkness, etc.

GOULD, Rev. S. Baring Origin & Devel. of Rel. Belief, 2 vols. [i. Monoth. & Polyth.; ii. Xty.] ea. 6/– c 8° Rivington [70/71] 78/82

LANG, Andrew —for his works in point, v. A § 9.

Seeks the origin of myths in a given condition of thought, the natural working of the savage mind, through which all races have passed, regarding language as only a subordinate cause in their development.

LYALL, Sir A. C. —article Origin of Myths in his Asiatic Studies 12/– 8° Murray [82] 82

MÜLLER, Prf. Max —in his Chips, v. ii.; and Intro. to Science of Rel., appendix on Philosophy of Mythology—v. A § 9.

Regards myths as developed out of language, almost as a "disease of language," the two chief linguistic influences being gender terminations (leading to the attribution of sex to inanimate objects) and the allegorical use of verbs (subsequently interpreted literally, e.g. Phœbus chasing Daphne).

SPENCER, Herbert —in his Principles of Sociology, v. i., pt. i., chaps. 10–26 21/– 8° Williams [77] 88

Finds the foundation of myths in the state of mind in which man personifies and animates all natural phenomena—which is not his original state but the result of degeneracy, due partly to lack of words "free from the implication of vitality," and partly to misconceptions; e.g. the descendants of an animal-nicknamed ancestor will in course of time come to regard themselves as sprung from an animal.

Introduction.

STUCKENBERG, Dr. J. H. W. [Am.] Introduction to the Study of Philosophy $2 8° New York 88

Encyclopædia of the Philosophical Sciences, and Dictionary.

FLEMING, Prf. William — A Vocabulary of Philosophy — 10/6 c 8° Griffin [58] 87

This edn. has been largely reconstructed by Prf. H. CALDERWOOD, w. assist. of J. SETH and others; previous editions of the smallest use.

KRAUTH, Prf. C. P. [Am.] A Vocabulary of the Philosophical Sciences $3.50 8° New York [78] 81

Includes a reprint of FLEMING, ut supra, fr. second edn. of 1860 and also fr. third (ed. CALDERWOOD) of 1876, with a useful but not very well selected list of books at the end.

Neither of the two above books are at all satisfactory. The three best German works on philosophical "encyclopædia," are that by A. H. RITTER: Encyc. d. philosoph. Wissenschaften, 3 vols. 8° Göttingen '62–'64: that by Jos. BECK: Philosoph. Propädeutik, 2 pts. 5/6 8° Stuttgart ['41–'44] '80; and that by K. ROSENKRANZ: System der Wissenschaften, 8/- 8° Königsberg '50. None of these, however, contain bibliographies.

II. History of Philosophy (European).

2. HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY: GENERALLY.

Entire Period.

BAX, E. Belfort — A Short History of Philosophy — 5/– c 8° Bohn's Lib. [86] 89

Easier reading than SCHWEGLER and more up to date than TENNEMANN, but the student must supplement it.

*ERDMANN, Prf. J. E. — Hist. of Philos., tr. under direc. of Dr. W. S. Hough, v. i. 15/–; ii. 15/–; iii. 12/– 8° Sonnenschein 89

By far the best and fullest general history, with copious extracts from the philosophers.

LEWES, G. H. [Pos.] — Biographical History of Philosophy — 16/– 8° Parker [46] 57

" " — History of Philosophy from Thales to Comte — 2 vols. 32/– 8° Longman [67] 80

Practically a new edition of the former work: the biograph. portion is the only part of much value.

MAURICE, Rev. F. D. — Moral and Metaphysical Philosophy — 2 vols. 16/– 8° Macmillan [50–53] 73

i.: to xiii. century; ii.: to 1800. Not suited to students owing to its lack of definiteness.

*SCHWEGLER, A. — History of Philosophy, tr. and annotated J. H. Stirling — 6/– c 8° Edinburgh [63] 79

A clear and concise presentation of the history of philosophy: Hegelian point of view.

SETH, Prf. Andrew — article Philosophy in Encyclo. Brit., vol. xviii. [brief view of its scope] 30/– 4° Black 85

TENNEMANN, W. G. — Manual of History of Philosophy, tr. A. Johnson — 5/– c 8° Bohn's Lib. [36] 52

His Geschichte der Philosophie (11 vols., 1798–1819) has not been translated. This book is too brief to be of much value, but is useful as a repository of notices and references concerning philosophers.

UEBERWEG, Dr. F. — History of Philosophy; from Thales to the present time [Am. tr.] 2 vols. 39/– r 8° Hodder [74,74] 85,80

1. Ancient and Mediæval Philosophy, 18/–; 2. Modern Philosophy, 21/–. Contains admirable condensed exposition of methods; and good bibliogs., ending, however, c. 1865.

4. HISTORY OF CIVILIZATION.

Generally.

ANDREWS, Prf. E. B. [Am.] Brief Institutes of General History [institutions and progress] $2 12° Boston [87] 88
BALMES, J. European Civilization [tr. fr. Spanish] 10/– 8° Burns & Oates [49] 55

Written by a learned Spanish Catholic ecclesiastic to counteract the influence of GUIZOT'S bk., ut inf. Compares the effect of Protestantism and Romanism upon Europ. civilization, much to the credit of the latter. Chaps. 34–38 [Tolerance, Right of Coercion, Inquisition] cont. the gist of the whole argument.

*BUCKLE, H. T. History of Civilization in England & France, Spain & Scotland, 3 vols. 24/– c 8° Longman [57–61] 67

Evolves and explains all possible occurrences and phenomena according to an a priori Necessity. On its first appearance in 1857, the bk. was everywhere hailed as a phenomenal work of a new genius, but since the author's death in 1862 the reading public has estimated it at its more real value. It is prodigiously learned, very dogmatic, fragmentary and exceedingly suggestive. BUCKLE is said to have spent 17 years' work of ten hours a day each in preparing himself for writing this book; and had he lived to complete the undertaking, of which this is only a gigantic fragmentary introduction, there is little doubt that it would have been one of the most important contributions to history of the latter half of the 19th cent.

DECOUDRAY, Gustave The History of Ancient Civilization, ed. & tr. Rev. J. Verschoyle; ill. 6/– c 8° Chapman 89
„ „ The History of Modern Civilization, ed. & tr. the same; ill. 6/– c 8° „ in prep.

An admirable and very compact summary, well edited by the English translator.

*DRAPER, Dr. J. W. [Am.] History of the Intellectual Development of Europe, 2 vols. 10/– c 8° Bohn's Lib. [63] 76

Makes physiology the basis of his philosophy of history, resolving all historical into physiological phenomena, whether material, vital, or spiritual. Pretty much the same Necessitarian point of view as BUCKLE, maintaining that Xty. in Europe has been a misfortune, civilization having progressed only as faith has declined.

FROUDE, J. A. —in his Short Studies, ser. i. 6/– c 8° Longman [67] 86

Takes the very opposite view to that of BUCKLE, maintaining that the peculiarities of history are chiefly due to the wayward forces of human nature.

GEIGER, Lazarus Contrib. to Hist. of Developt. of Human Race [tr.] [Eng. & For. Phil. Lib.] 6/– 8° Trübner 80
GUIZOT, F. P. G. History of Civilization in Europe [A.D. 475–1789] 3/6 c 8° Bohn's Lib. 56

This is the less bad of the two trss. of this suggestive, if somewhat vague, book. GUIZOT'S theories are examined in one of Mill's Dissertations [C § 49]; v. also Hy. REEVE'S art. Guizot, in Encyclo. Brit., vol. xi.

*LECKY, W. E. H. History of European Morals, 2 vols. [Augustus to Charlemagne] 16/– 8° Longman [69] 77

After examining the several theories of philosophical ethics, presents the moral life first of Pagan and then of Christian Rome. Ends with an essay on the influence of Christianity upon the position of woman in Europe.

OZANAM, A. F. History of Civilization in the Fifth Century [tr.], 2 vols. 21/– c 8° W. H. Allen 67

POLYBIUS The Histories of, tr. E. S. Shuckburgh, 2 vols. 24/– 8° Macmillan 89
Orig. the hist. consisted of 40 bks. [B.C. 220–146], but much of it is lost; the part we have throws much light on the 2nd and 3rd Punic Wars and on the Achaian League.

THUCYDIDES Hist. of the Pelop. War, tr. B. Jowett, 2 v. [i. tr.; ii. notes, essays & disserts.] 32/– 8° Clar. Press 81
Universally and at all ages regarded as one of the most important and remarkable of historical writings. Scrupulously honest and conscientious, w. a deep insight into human nature. MACAULAY is said to have read this work more often than any other history, and to have said that, though he might hope to rival any other piece of historical writing he knew, he could never hope to rival the 7th bk. of Thucydides. For other trs., v. K § Gk. Historians.

XENOPHON Whole Works of, tr. Ashley + Spelman + Smith, etc. 12/– 8° Chatto [v.y.] 75
A tr. of the whole works by H. G. DAKYNS is now in progress (Macmillan), which, when finished, will be far the best in English. Of value are the Anabasis and Hellenica: the Cyropædia is a tractate on education, and of no historical importance.

Modern Writers: General Histories.

ABBOTT, Dr. Evelyn History of Greece, vol. i. [to Ionian Revolt]; ii. [to d. of Alex.] ea. 10/6 c 8° Rivington 88; in prep.
COX, Sir Geo. W. A History of Greece, vols. i.–ii. 36/– 8° Paul [74] 79
Ends with the Peloponnesian War. Written in a popular, attractive style, and the best book for the general reader.

,, ,, General History of Greece; maps and tables [to d. of Alexander] 7/6 c 8° ,, [76] 83
One of the best of the smaller histories of Greece. Attaches much importance to mythology as a key to the characteristics of early civilization.

*CURTIUS, Prf. Ernst History of Greece, tr. Prf. A. W. Ward, 5 vols. [to B.C. 337] ea. 18/– 8° Bentley 68–73
Scholarly and for scholars; but omits naming his authorities, tho' the value of his archæolog. and histor. researches is undoubted. Monarchical in sympathy, differing also in other respects from GROTE. Devotes much attention to geography, though his theory as to origin and movements of early Hellenic races is accepted by very few scholars.

*DUNCKNER, Prf. Max Hist. of Greece to Battle of Salamis, tr. S. F. Alleyne + Ev. Abbott, v. i.–ii. ea. 15/– 8° Bentley 83–87
FELTON, C. C. [Am.] Ancient and Modern Greece [popular lectures del. at Boston] $5 8° Boston [67] 85
Four courses: Gk. lang. and poetry, Life of Greece, Constits. and Orators of Greece, Modern Greece.

*FINLAY, Dr. George Hist. of Greece fr. Conq. by Romans to Pres. Time, ed. H. F. Tozer, 7 v. 70/– 8° Clar. Press [44–61] 77
i.: Greece under Romans [B.C. 146–A.D. 717; ii.–iii.: Byzantine Empire [716–1204]; iv.: Mediæv. Greece and Trebizond [1204–1566]; v.: Greece under Othoman and Venetian Dominion [1453–1821]; vi.–vii.: Hist. of the Gk. Revolution and Gk. affairs of last 20 years. Learned, accurate, and severely critical.

FYFFE, C. A. Greece [elementary; Macmillan's History Primers] 1/– 18° Macmillan 75
*GROTE, George History of Greece, 10 vols. [to Alexander the Great] ea. 5/– p 8° Murray [46–50] 88
Cf. review in J. S. MILL'S Dissertations. The 10 vol. 8vo edn., pub. £6, 1872, is out of print. Probably no histor. wk. of this cent. has received more general or more hearty recognition than has this. It is history of the highest order of merit: learned, full of research, familiar with the byways as well as the highways of Gk. literature—its one fault being its awkward & occasionally involved style. Written fr. pt. of view of a practical politician, of Liberal views.

MITFORD, Wm. Hist. of Greece, ed. Ld. Redesdale [his bro.]; 8 v. [to d. of Philip of Maced.] [w. 15/–] 8° Caddell [$\frac{1784}{1818}$] 38
No longer of any great value. Occupies position on the Tory side held by GROTE on the Liberal. The edns. before the 7th (the above) are almost worthless, as not contg. the considerable revisions and corrections which were incorporated in it.

v. Ranke, Leopold  Universal History, v. i. : Oldest Group of Nations, and Greeks [tr.]  16/–  8°  Paul  85

Smith, Dr. W. [ed.]  History of Greece ; maps and ill.  [to the Roman Conquest] 7/6 p 8°  Murray  [54] 81

A convenient summary, following Grote. Intended for students' use.

Thirlwall, Bp. Connop  The History of Greece, 8 vols.  [to B.C. 146] o.p. [w. 50/–]  8°  Longm. [39–44] 45–52

Aristocratic sympathies, forming a good complement to Grote, espec. as Thirlwall is spec. strong in the later history, while Grote's strongest part is his early history. A very readable book, by no means entirely superseded by later historians.

Sources [translated]—for Texts, Annotated Texts, and Critical Aids, v. K § Latin Historians.

AMMIANUS MARCELLINUS Roman History, tr. Prf. C. D. Yonge 7/6 c 8° Bohn's Lib. 62

Originally there were 31 books, covering the period A.D. 96–378; and as the history began where TACITUS and SUETONIUS ended, it was regarded as a contin. of them; but the first 13 bks. are now lost, and we have left only the bks. embracing the period A.D. 353–378. GIBBON attaches much importance to this authority, whom all critics regard as accurate, trustworthy, and impartial.

*LIVY Roman History [to A.D. 390], tr. Spillan+Edmonds+Devitte, 4 vols. ea. 5/- c 8° ,, [49–53] 64

The First Book contains the best discussion on the Institutions of the period of the Kings. Almost faultless in style, but a "popular" history, written to gratify the national vanity of the Romans. Of the 142 bks. written by LIVY, only 35 have been preserved. Bks. i.-x. we have entire [to B.C. 294]; the third decade [219-201] has also come down to us; the fourth decade and first half of fifth, bks. xxxi.-xlv., are entire; of the rest only summaries.

Modern Writers.

General Histories.

ARNOLD, Dr. Thos. History of Rome [to B.C. 241] 8° Bickers [40–3] 82

Owing to the author's death, the work was not completed beyond the Spanish campaign in the Second Punic War [to B.C. 241. Based on NIEBUHR, whose theories on early Rom. hist. have now been abandoned. The bk. is thus superseded by several more recent ones, though its account of the Punic Wars is as satisfactory as any in the English language. Vide Punic Wars, infra.

CREIGHTON, M. Rome [History Primers; elementary] 1/– 18° Macmillan 75

DURUY, Victor History of Rome and Roman People, ed. Prf. J. P. Mahaffy, 6 vols. ea. 30/– r 8° Paul 83–86

Finely ill. w. 2,500 engravings and col. pl., and 100 maps and plans. Of considerable literary merit; mainly popular.

GILMAN, Arthur [Am.] Rome; maps & ill. [Story of the Nations; popular] 5/– c 8° Unwin [86] 86

HORTON, R. F. History of the Romans; 3 maps 3/6 c 8° Rivington [84] 87

IHNE, W. History of Rome [tr.], 5 vols. [to fall of the Republic, B.C. 133] ea. 15/– 8° Longman 71–82

Well tr. by the author himself. Critical and judicially impartial, examining all evidence and advancing no theories—consequently of particular value on the early history of Rome. References to authorities not very numerous.

MERIVALE, Dn. C. General History of Rome [B.C. 753–A.D. 476] 7/6 c 8° Longman 75

MICHELET, Jules History of the Roman Republic, tr. [badly] W. Hazlitt 3/6 c 8° Bohn's Lib. 47

*MOMMSEN, Prf. Theod. Hist. of Rome to time of Aug. [B.C. 46], tr. Dr. W. P. Dickson; 4 v. 75/– 8°; 46/6 c 8° Bentley [62–66] 68–75

,, ,, History of the Roman Republic, abdgd. C. Bryans + F. J. R. Hendy 7/6 c 8° ,, 88

Mainly a constitutional history; prepared for general readers rather than scholars, though it has become a favourite student's book. MOMMSEN does not give his authorities, which, as he relies on the results of philological research and on monumental inscriptions, is an omission particularly serious. Methods very much those of NIEBUHR.

de MONTESQUIEU, Bar. C. Considerations on Causes of Grandeur and Decadence of Romans [tr.] $2 12° New York 82

Not trustworthy in all his statements: literature rather than history.

NIEBUHR, B. G. History of Rome, vols. i.–ii., tr. J. C. Hare + C. Thirlwall; iii., tr. W. Smith + L. Schmitz, 3 vols. [to B.C. 85] o.p. [pb. 36/–; w. 10/6] 8° Walton [31–42] 59

The first book written in the new critical historical method and spirit, testing the hitherto accepted narratives of the most trustworthy historians by close comparison with one another, by the evidence of monuments and inscriptions, and by the testimony of language and dialects. Orig. edn. first pub. 1812; first Engl. tr. 1827. The work was endorsed and adopted by Dr. ARNOLD, ut supra, and subjected to a searching criticism by Sir G. C. LEWIS, ut infra.

Also [abridged] in 1 vol. [Standard Lib.] 3/6 f 8° Routledge '75. A very graphic and faithful picture of 14th cent. events, full of the minutest details of battles, captures of castles, gallant deeds, etc., and vivid pen portraits. As a view of the most favourable side of chivalry it has no equal.

*HALLAM, Henry The Constitutional Hist· of Engl., 3 vols. [Hy. vii.–Geo. ii.; 1485–1760] 12/- p 8° Murray [27] 72

„ „ The Same, abridged and ed. Dr. W. Smith 7/6 p 8° „ 72

Learned, impartial, and by no means yet antiquated, but in awkward and laborious style. Cf. MACULAY'S critique of this work in his Essays, 2/6 c 8° Longman [25–44] '89. The edns. in 1 vol. ### Sources.

UDALL, Rev. John — Diotrephes: state of the Church of England laid open 1/6 f 8° Arber's Reprts. [1588] 79

A dialogue between a Bishop, a Baptist, a Usurer, an Innkeeper, and a Preacher. It is the forerunning tract of the controversy. The printer, Rob. Waldegrave, was ruined for the production of it, and thus became available for the printing of the Martinist invectives. Udall, however, was not a Martinist.
